Excerpt: . . . 12 OMB-approved 3-year time line; establishing some asset management performance measures; completing and maintaining an inventory and profile of the Corps real property; and providing timely information for inclusion into the annual Federal Real Property Profile. REMIS did not provide reliable information on the Corps civil works land The Corps Land disposals from fiscal year 1996 through fiscal year 2006, or on the land that Disposal Data from the Corps owned as of September 30, 2006, for several reasons. These reasons include poorly maintained internal controls over REMIS disposal Fiscal Year 1996 data at various levels of the Corps organization, a database design that did through Fiscal Year not follow a software engineering best practice, and land disposal dates that did not accurately indicate when the disposal took place. In addition, 2006 Are Unreliable unclear guidance for processing land disposals in REMIS coupled with a limited user-training program contributed to the unreliability of the disposal data. These unreliable data impair the usefulness of REMIS as a record of current inventory and as a source of data that would be useful to Corps decision makers for budgeting and strategic land management purposes. Real estate officials in districts and divisions did not maintain effective Districts and Divisions Did internal controls over REMIS disposal data. Maintaining effective internal Not Maintain Effective controls throughout an organization is an ongoing effort that helps to Internal Controls over detect and prevent errors in data, such as real property data in REMIS. The REMIS Data standards for internal control in the federal government provide the overall framework for federal managers to establish and maintain effective internal control....
