Fire Administration, 2004 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)71789341 Subject: Dwellings -- Fires and fire prevention -- Florida -- Saint Cloud. Excerpt: . . . USFA-TR-142 June 2001 5 The weather at the time of there was not an issue. Skies were clear with a light breeze and the temperature was in the low 70 s. After there had been extinguished, reghters learned that the adult male occupant of the house had been asleep on a couch in the living room. He woke up, discovered there, and called 9-1-1. According to him, there was no operating smoke detector to alert the occupants that the house was onre. He allegedly went upstairs, but was driven back by heavy smoke. Before exiting the secondoor, the man stated that he broke a window that he could not open. He then went back downstairs and exited via the rear of the structure, leaving the door open. Then, he climbed up to roof of the back porch, broke out the window, and called to the children. When he left the house, he had picked up a portable phone, which he used to call 9-1-1 from the roof of the back porch. Records indicate that a total of three 9-1-1 calls were made from the burning residence. The dispatcher reported that she could hear the children screaming in background. Allegedly, there hadashed over and knocked the man over backwards. Suffering from smoke inhalation, cuts, and burns, the man then exited the roof of the porch. An attendant at a gas station located two blocks away toldre ofcials that he was taking out the trash when he saw there and called 9-1-1. He stated that...
