If you have suffered with debilitating pain for years, you are not alone. Millions deal with chronic pain each and every day and believe there is no end in sight. Most have tried every pill, potion, or procedure to cure it, and many haven't gotten anywhere. What if the pain was a result of underlying emotions—hidden feelings—from events and circumstances that were never fully resolved? What if your pain was being charged by those feelings rather than by physical means? What if you could change your emotions and the pain would go away?.
